

Williams-Pyro Wins DSCR Gold Award for 100% Quality and On-Time Delivery

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 16, 2007

Williams-Pyro, Inc. announced today that it has won the Best Value Gold Medal from the Defense Supply Center Richmond (DSCR). The award recognizes Williams-Pyro as one of the government's best suppliers and honors the company's perfect scores for quality performance and on-time delivery of cables, breech adapters, and test equipment.

This marks the fourth year in a row that Williams-Pyro has received this prestigious award.

According to Captain S.P. Abramowicz, Director of Aviation Supplier Operations at DSCR, Williams-Pyro was awarded the gold medal based on the company's "exceptional Automated Best Value System (ABVS) score." The ABVS score, which combines vendors' quality and delivery scores, ranges from zero to 100; Williams-Pyro's perfect score of 100 earned them the gold medal.

"This award reaffirms Williams-Pyro's philosophy that delivering quality products on time is vital to our customers' success," said executive vice president and COO, Brent Williams. "We believe quality is the never-ending drive to help clients solve problems and attain their business goals, so we're delighted to have won the DSCR gold medal for quality four times running."

A long-time supplier for the defense industry, Williams-Pyro has designed and developed parts and equipment for over forty years and is currently ISO 9001:2000 registered.
